

ICT Community Forum

Delivering Business Value Through Technology

India of Inchinnan

Forum Overview

Driven by its members, the ICT Community Forum will take place on a quarterly basis with the first meeting being presented by Amor Group at India of Inchinnan. This initial meeting is aimed at setting clear goals for the forum, formats of future meetings and establishing how best to implement effective knowledge sharing and best practice information.

Who Is Amor Group?

Amor Group is Scotland's leading independent business technology solutions company with revenues of £30m and 400 staff across our offices in Glasgow, Aberdeen, Edinburgh, Coventry and Houston. We provide business technology solutions, professional services and managed services to help businesses in the energy, transport and public sectors transform their businesses.

Forum Topics

This forum is to be shaped and directed by the member groups. It is up to each interested party to put forward ideas, topics, success stories or learning points that they think will be of benefit to themselves in the long run. To put forward your initial topics for discussion please visit surveymonkey.com/s/amorICTforum

Overview

In order to ensure local companies are maximising the benefits to be had from leveraging the inherent operational improvements present in many current and emerging technologies, we are proposing to set up a local forum for interested bodies to meet up and share information on how they have streamlined aspects of their business, utilising IT-related technology and current best practice. We are looking to locally-based organisations to join and help shape the forum.

Key Benefits

- Assess how your organisation is currently utilising technology and IT best practice in consideration of other local businesses
- Consider how emerging technologies and local success stories can play a role in your IT strategies
- Take pointers from recognised best practice
- Generate new ideas through regular collaboration with peers and industry experts
- Maximise the benefits of local expertise in close proximity
